Has Your Church A Missionary Herald Club?

There are such clubs now in 236 (out of 6,089) Congregational churches. That's a gain of eighteen clubs over 1916.

But there should be one in at least 2,236 of our churches. That's putting the figure low.

Is your church one of the 236 or one of the 2,000? Which is it to be in 1918?

Now is the time to get started on a club for Next Year.

Ten or more subscriptions at fifty cents each make a club.

Send remittances with address of each member of the club in full to

Forty-Six Churches Are on the Honor List for 1917

That is to say, they have clubs of twenty or more members. Look over the list and see if you don't find a church of about the size and character of yours. Can't you equal its record?

In the order of the size of these clubs, the list is: -

What the American Ambassador Thinks of Them

111 BROADWAY

August 8, 1917

Dear Dr. Barton:

While I was Ambassador at Constantinople it was my good fortune to see a great deal of the missionaries connected with the American Board of Missions and with the teachers of the American Colleges in Turkey. I am very glad to say that I was much impressed in general with the ability and devotion of these men and women, who, without hope of substantial personal gain, were giving themselves with rare unselfishness to the interests of the people of that country. When I left Turkey after the severance of diplomatic relations, many voluntarily chose to remain behind because they felt that their duty to the suffering thousands remaining there required them so to do.

I am glad to say that it is my opinion that the medical, industrial and educational work carried on in Turkey by American missionaries and teachers is of the highest value to the country and is needed just as much now, if not more, than at any other time.

With kindest regards, I remain,

Very sincerely yours,

OCTOBER means a fresh start in church life and work. Things do not come to a full stop during The Month the summer. In of Beginnings places, at least one service is maintained on Sunday, if all other are cancelled. appointments there are churches, taken together a host of them, that keep almost all departments and activities going in some fashion all the year round. Fewer families, if we may judge all parts of the country by one, have been away on vacation this summer. It has been a time of home-staying, of quieter living, and of adjusting affairs to war conditions.

The resumption of church and community life this autumn will not, therefore, be so marked an event. Yet it comes quickly and with a clear change of tide. In these present and passing days it is being accomplished all over the land—church organizations becoming active once more, the ranks of church workers being replenished, and lines of interest and activity being mapped out.

This year, in the midst of October, come our great meetings of National Council and Benevolent Societies at Columbus, O., to give fresh stimulus and direction to our church life. Sobered by the war, and made more sensitive to what sacrifice and devotion really mean, may we all bend our energies with new resolve and with truer spirit to the work of another church year. It is a testing hour for Christians and for the church; and abroad as well as at home. It is a time to put first things first, and instead of shortening in on religious activities because of war-time absorptions, to broaden out and take in world needs. After all, the war is an incident; it reveals deeper needs than fighting and food-saving. It shows the prime trouble with this world to be in the selfish and ungodly heart of man. There is just one supreme errand for Christians, one thing to seek first. Let us exalt it in church services, in church organizations, in lines of reading, work, and prayer. "Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done, on earth as it is in heaven."

LET no one forget the dates, October 10-17. If you can be there, of course you will not for-Columbus, Ohio, get them. But even if October 10-17 you can't attend, remember the meetings. Remember them in your prayers and in your thoughtful interest. Read whatever you can get hold of that reports what was said and done. Magnify in your own mind and in the minds of those whom you reach the importance of this gathering of our Congregational host at this epochal hour. Think what subjects are to be discussed, what issues are at stake, what determining influences may be set in motion! The whole world reviewed: the tercentenary era faced: the churches of our order assembled in their representative capacity for survey and advance. What will be the vision, the call, the watchwords? In what spirit and with what purpose will the delegates return to their homes and their churches? To these heights of privilege and responsibility they will look from all the corners of the land, and from the foreign mission fields as well, to learn what Congregational America proposes to do for its Lord. Remember the great days, October 10 to 17.

ALL friends of the American Board, and in particular of its harassed field in Albania, have lamented Re-entered the fact that the course of events in the Balkans of late years compelled the reluctant withdrawal of our missionaries, the Ericksons and the Kennedys, from a land that was not only attacked from all sides without, but torn by civil strife within. Albania has been dismembered through the conflict of arms: its own government has been destroyed; its people are now subject to one and another of the warring countries. Northern Albania is held by Austria; southwestern is dominated by Italy; southeastern by the Allies as represented by France. The presence of a substantial and governing power in this last named section has opened the way for the reëntrance of American Board missionaries. Rev. and Mrs. P. B. Kennedy so urgently pleaded to be allowed to return, at least to the vicinity of their loved Albania, that last autumn the Prudential Committee authorized their going to Salonica, where they could aid in relief work and other ministries and be ready if the door opened to move back into Albania. That hope has now been achieved. In accordance with the approval of military authorities, the missionaries of the Salonica station, and the United States Consul. the Prudential Committee has authorized the Kennedys to proceed to Kortcha, and as the way opens to resume missionary work there. We await with eagerness their report of what they find.

THE officers and Prudential Committee will not soon forget the committee meeting of From the Valley of the August 28th, when Shadow of Death present six were missionaries and four children who had just arrived in this country from different parts of Turkey: Rev. Henry H. Riggs and Mrs. T. A. Atkinson and her three children, from Harpoot; Mrs. John E. Merrill, wife of President Merrill, of Central Turkey College at Aintab; Mrs. Elvesta T. Leslie and child, from Oorfa; Miss Vina M. Sherman, of Brousa, and Mr. C. W. Lawrence, of the International College at Smyrna.

The accounts which they had to give from their several fields were somewhat unlike. At Smyrna, notwithstanding the burdens of war times, work both in the International College and in the College for Girls had gone on almost without interruption, the local governor being friendly and considerate in the exercise of his authority. Some of the outstations had felt the crushing effect of the war, but the work in the city had been marvelously preserved.

At Harpoot, on the other hand, the taking over of buildings had interfered with the conduct of some of the schools, while the despoiling of Armenian homes and the slaughter of the men and the deportation of the women and children, both in the city and in the district, had even more seriously brought the work to a standstill. There was little now to be done but to administer relief and to wait the outcome of the war. The attitude of the officials had of late been increasingly friendly and considerate. Mr. Riggs felt that he had never had better standing or more influence with them than on the day he left. They were showing some kindnesses to desolated Armenians in the way of medical care, in the return of the Evangelical chapel for the purposes of religious worship, and in allowing the Armenian pastor to fulfill his ministry.

MRS. ATKINSON was able also to report that she had been allowed, since the lamented death With Eyes of of her husband, to Unconquerable Hope maintain work in the hospital in connection with the Turkish officials, and that she had been permitted even to pursue informal religious work among the Turkish soldiers who were under treatment there. Some of the finest and most rewarding experiences of her missionary life had come to her in the midst of this war-time administration of the hospital.

Mrs. Mcrrill's account of the situation at Aintab revealed the fact that they had been spared in that city the sight of the fiercer atrocities, such as the killing of Armenian men, and that they had been able until up to the time of her leaving to keep the mission property in their possession. She had left behind four members of the staff, including her husband, each occupying a building belonging to the several institutions. Dr. Hamilton, representing the hospital and medical work, was in fine favor with the officials.

It was a thrilling experience to listen to the quiet stories of these who had come out of the great tribulation; as one said, almost with the smell of fire upon their garments. It was noted after they had gone out from the meeting that though two of the ladies had lost their husbands and one of the men had lost his wife and only child, yet there was no reference to personal sufferings, and no bitter words concerning those who had been their rulers. On the other hand, there was eager reference to prospects of work when the way should open for return, and a quiet confidence that through these terrible months and years of suffering a victory had been won whose fruits would be gathered when the war was over.

THE July number of the Missionary Herald reported the fact that the Prudential Committee had given "leave of absence for the duration of the war" to Dr. James F. Cooper, of the Foochow Mission, that he might accompany and care for some of the tens of thousands of Chinese coolies who are being sent to France to work back of the lines in road and railroad construction. The Chinese government demands that these men have medical care. Realizing how hard was likely to be their lot in a strange land, without knowledge of the language, without friends, with no provision for their safeguarding or relief, Dr. Cooper felt that here was his chance to help, and to do an urgently needed bit of missionary work. The Prudential Committee agreed with him, and approved his plan. He therefore enrolled in the British Army, which is managing this enterprise, was given the rank of Lieutenant and put in charge of one company of these coolies, about to sail on their long journey across both Pacific and Atlantic Oceans and through Canada. Word has been received from "somewhere in France" of their safe arrival and of the establishment of a Chinese General Hospital, with Lieut. James F. Cooper, R.A.M.C., in charge. We are glad to reproduce as frontispiece

MR. STARTE'S informing article in this number calls attention to a new line of missionary work which the American Missionary Service Board is undertaking in India. Members of robber castes have been reached by our missions for a good many years; some of the most stalwart converts have been gained from these people. But now we are entering upon a systematized and responsible oversight of settlements under agreement with Government to educate and to train in character these capable but restless and troublesome citizens of India.

At the same time with this announcement of the beginning of work at Sholapur comes a letter from Rev. Edward P. Holton, of the Madura Mission in South India, describing his experiences as "a sort of a subpro tem. penologist, marooned sixty miles from the nearest white folks of my acquaintance," in charge of a Voluntary Settlement of the Kallar thief caste. We have announced before that the Indian government was negotiating with the Madura Mission to undertake this work and that quite extensive plans had been formed, which had been held up by the war and its necessary retrenchments.

Now, however, they have ordered a beginning in a small way. "in anticipation of sanction," that is, of orders in council that carry the necessary appropriations. It is the first of the Voluntary Settlements and is largely an experiment. Mr. Holton is put in charge, his immediate superior being the District Superintendent of Police. Full liberty is given to the missionary superintendent as to coming and going; but since he is held responsible for what goes on at the settlement and is alone on the job, he feels as if ball and chain had been clamped to his ankle.

Evidently he is much drawn to his new wards, of whom he says: "The Kallars are a sturdy, manly, vigorous folk. As you come to know them you cannot help but admire them. We had about a hundred of them squatted all about this police tent last Thursday P.M., and had them in on roll call, one after another. It would make a Recruiting Officer's eyes glisten to see their fine, well set-up frames."

It hardly need be said, so evident is it, that the action of the Indian government in asking our missions to take over a work that has been found too difficult by the officials is impressive testimony as to the success and practical value of mission labor. Score one for the foreign missionary!

MISS FRANCES C. GAGE, notice of whose passing appears in The Chronicle, is best known to Mission-Dead in ary Herald readers as an as-Marsovan sociate of Miss Charlotte Willard, of Marsovan, during the trying years since 1914. Born in Quincy, Mass., in 1863, she graduated from Carleton College, Minnesota, in 1890 and in 1893 went with her intimate college friend, Martha King, to join the Turkey Mission. Miss King's tragic death occurred in 1896, and soon afterward Miss Gage returned to America and went into the work of the National Young Women's Christian Association, proving a wonderfully resourceful and inspiring leader. In 1913 she went back to Turkey under the International Young Women's Christian Association, and was soon found at Marsovan, her old station, acting as principal in the institution named in memory of her former friend, "The Martha A. King School for the Deaf."

After the war broke out, and the Turks. having forced an entrance into the Marsovan compound, took away sixty-three Armenian girls and young women, Miss Gage went with Miss Willard on that daring rescue expedition and helped in the negotiations at Sivas which resulted in bringing back to Marsovan forty-one of the deported girls. Then, as matters went from bad to worse in the interior, Miss Gage put her wonderful executive ability into managing the industrial and medical relief work which the missionaries were allowed to do. Sanitary conditions grew unspeakably bad probably we shall never know the horrors the plucky group lived through but early in 1917 matters seemed to be improving, and Miss Gage spoke more hopefully of the weaving, knitting, and lace making established among the women; she told also of a few people crawling back from exile, "most miserable and often with unbalanced minds," and of her efforts to set them on their feet. Her death, announced from Constantinople Switzerland and thence by cable to America, occurred on July 15. particulars have yet been received, but the loss of her strong spirit and wise brain is very grievous to the harassed poor in Marsovan and to all friends of the Turkey missions.

It is not customary to call attention to age in connection with the gentler sex. But the Woman's Marking Its First Board of Missions ad-Half Century mits that it is fifty years old. Moreover, it proposes to mark the fact. It is to hold its annual meeting this year, November 14-16, in Boston, where it was organized in 1867. The three living charter members and one of the missionaries sent out in the first year of its work are planning to be present. Dr. Gurubai Karmarkar, of Bombay, will represent the women of the East. It is confidently expected that the Golden Anniversary Gift of $250,000 will be secured and one session will be devoted to celebrating this event and to learning whether the other goals, set five years ago, have also all been attained.

THE unique and crowning feature of this festival meeting will be the Pageant entitled, "The Gift "The Gift of Light," to be given in Jorof Light' dan Hall, Boston, on two evenings, Monday and Tuesday, November 12 and 13. It is designed that the first evening may afford opportunity for the people of Greater Boston to witness the Pageant, leaving plenty of good seats the second evening for those who are coming from a distance for the annual meeting and will probably arrive on Tuesday. It will doubtless be necessary to secure tickets well in advance, which can be done by sending money and self-addressed envelope to Mrs. H. C. Fabyan, 21 Sparhawk Street, Brighton, Mass. Prices are: 50 cents, 75 cents, and $1.00. And the application should specify which night is desired. The outline of the features of this Pageant as given in announcements concerning it kindles high anticipation. It is sure to be a brilliant and effective portrayal of its theme, an event long to be remembered.

The American Board is deeply interested in this celebration. It is proud of the record of the Woman's Board and appreciative of and grateful for the aid it has brought to the enterprise which was begun 107 years ago. May the next fifty years show still more clearly "The Gift of Light" to the nations! This may be the Golden Jubilee of the Woman's Board; but its golden years. we feel sure, are not yet at their flood.

Good stories come out of Africa. For one with the seeing eye and the understanding heart, Africa's primitive people are ever an interesting object of study and portrayal. Dr. McCord, of Durban, has sent us many effective glimpses of life among the black people of the Dark Continent, but none better than that which makes the October issue of the Envelope as Africa is to be the subject of reading and study this winter. It offers an entertaining interlude to more serious reading and is calculated to wake up a missionary meeting or a study class like a sea breeze on a summer's day. Our advertising pages make formal announcement of this number.

ABOUT a year ago the British authorities established in permanent camp at Port Said the 4,000 villagers who escaped at Port Said deportation by fleeing to the top of Mousa Dagh (Mt. Moses), near Antioch, and signaling for rescue to men-of-war off the coast. In October, 1916, Miss Mary E. Kinney, of Adabazar, and Mrs. Lillian C. Sewny, of Sivas, feeling that they would be at least on the way to their work in Turkey, left America for Cairo and offered their services to the refugee camp. Mrs. Sewny is superintendent of the diet kitchen, which supplies food to all those who were found to be suffering from pellagra. This is a most important service, and Mrs. Sewny, who was missionary nurse at Sivas before her marriage to the late Dr. Sewny, is very efficient. She is also doing the staff housekeeping-"no small job," says Miss Kinney, in a recent note "when one has to cater for from eleven to thirteen each day." Mrs. Sewny also has oversight of the crèche, where about forty little tots are taken care of each day while their mothers are at work.

Miss Kinney has had charge of the women's work—lace making and embroidery, etc. She says: "In my department we have been pegging along, steadily increasing the output, both in quantity and quality. Our chief trouble is to provide work for all the women who want it. Thread is growing more expensive, and it is a question how much to try to induce people to buy things which are not necessities. Of course our excuse is that we are providing wholesome work for those who need it and making them self-respecting. Mrs. Sewny and I are soon to go to Alexandria, and with the Red Cross Committee shall decide on our next year's budget."

"IT's an ill wind that blows nobody good." Undeniably this war is a very ill wind. That it is bring-How the War ing good to some appears Helps Africa from an article in the Boston Post of September 8, announcing that four of the oldest distilleries in the United States, and all of them located in Greater Boston, were that day to go out of business, compelled by the recent act of Congress prohibiting the making of distilled spirits as a beverage. Several of these distilleries had the most of their customers in Africa. A line of vessels was kept busy in transporting the rum they produced to the west coast, whence it was conveyed inland on the backs of carriers to debauch the "poor benighted heathen," to use the Post's phrase. It was hardly necessary for that paper to add this gratuitous slander: "Not only the benighted heathen, but the poor missionary will have to suffer, for the missionary invariably found New England rum a sure cure for jungle chills and fever."

As a matter of fact, the missionary found nothing of the sort. Aside from his moral aversion to the traffic, the missionary knew very well that the worst thing he could do for jungle fever was to fill up on rum—even though it came from Boston. It will be good news to all those who are trying to uplift the blacks of West Africa that the war has put a stop to the making of New England rum. May those distilleries never reopen!

As our readers are already informed, the problem of the "conscience Clause" is row agitating India. The duestion is whether all educational institutions receiving grants from public funds shall be compelled by Government to allow the withdrawal of any pupil from the periods devoted to religious worship and instruction. The July issue of The East and the West contains an article on the subject by Rev. W. E. S. Holland, principal of a Church Missionary Society college in Calcutta, which discusses the situation and the course that should be taken in a way notably fair and reasonable.

The demand for the conscience clause is made on the ground that without its provision, the religious neutrality of the government is violated, an unfair use of taxpayers' money is allowed, a different practice is followed in India from England, and Indian students are morally injured in being compelled to sit through religious teaching of which at heart they disapprove. After meeting and answering these contentions third, that practice in India and England should correspond is allowed), Mr. Holland proceeds to consider many and weighty arguments against the conscience clause. He does not feel that it would necessarily shut the door to all Christian influence in mission schools, and so compel disloyalty to the missionary commission if it were accepted; he would wish never to rely on compulsion as a weapon for spreading the gospel. On the other hand, he would claim freedom for the teacher as well as the taught, and affirms that Christian educators should not be expected to give themselves to a curriculum which omits what they regard as the most potent and valuable influence in education, and the regulating factor of the whole.

Other genuine and serious difficulties in the way of adopting the conscience clause are noted and fairly stated; it is calmly but squarely affirmed that if such adoption should result in the withdrawal of any considerable body of pupils from religious teaching it would mean a whole-sale closing down of missionary institutions, a result which would be regarded by all as a calamity. The prevailing missionary opinion maintains two principles: first, nothing can be allowed to qualify the radically Christian character of whatever education is furnished in missionary institutions; and second, the acceptance of Christian education must depend never on compulsion, but on voluntary choice.

ANY satisfactory solution of the problem, Mr. Holland contends, must meet four requirements; it Solving must leave room for enthe Difficulty tire loyalty to the missionary commission, cohere sound educational methods, commend itself as fair and honorable to the Indian conscience, and present a line of policy that Government can adopt. The conscience clause does not meet these tests.

The solution of the difficulty which the article advocates is that Government should provide an alternative school in the comparatively few places where such do not now exist, and where they are honestly desired. In these cases mission schools would be prepared to surrender present grants if that was required. The great mass of missionary education, at any rate in the higher grades, is now in areas where the Hindu or Moslem pupil has before him the choice of a missionary or a neutral institution.

The closing paragraph of the article well sums up its argument:—

"The position we plead for is an unequivocal declaration that Christian teaching shall at every point be really voluntary, and an equally uncompromising insistence that the public cannot coerce missionaries into giving their lives to impart an education in which they do not believe. The method is clear recognition of the fact that, where Christian education is not desired, it is the business of the public to provide it, and the retention by the mission of the right to grant a conscience clause in the small residue of cases where an alternative is impossible."

We shall watch with interest the further course of this discussion.

ABOUT INDIA'S CRIMINAL TRIBES

BY O. H. B. STARTE

Indian Çivil Service, Criminal Tribes' Settlement Officer

THE American Marathi Mission took over the charge of the Criminal Tribes' Settlement at Sholapur on June 1, 1917. Certain classes in India are bound to commit particular kinds of offenses by virtue of their caste organization. For example, the Chapparband caste has, for at least the last 400 years, maintained itself by the making of false coins. Until seven years ago, when Settlement work was introduced among them, the male children were dedicated to this work a few days after birth, by placing some of the implements and materials required for the making of false coins in their hands, while a religious ceremony was performed. This caste, as a whole, regarded stealing as degrading.

Another caste is addicted to stealing, but its caste rules permit stealing only during hours of daylight. In another caste the men stay home at ease, while their women go out to beg and steal. Some castes have fixed abodes in which their families live, and to which they return at intervals. Other castes wander about in gangs.

The visitation of a Criminal Tribe gang to a village spells disaster, and the villagers often compromise by making a joint contribution to it of cash or grain or goats, or anything else desired, not excluding liquor, on condition that the gang moves on to the next village. At intervals members would be seized and charged with the commission of offenses, and perhaps sent to jail. Meanwhile, the gang would move on, and perhaps split up, and by the time those in jail were released, the members of a family might be scattered in far distant places.

Until 1908 few systematic efforts had been made to deal with these tribes. In 1911 a new Criminal Tribes' Act was passed. In many parts of India, especially in United

SOME OF THE HOMES OF THE CRIMINAL TRIBES' PEOPLE

Provinces and Punjab and Madras, the Salvation Army have established Settlements under Government auspices. They have now about nine thousand persons, inclusive of women and children, in their charge. In the Bombay Presidency the work was started in 1909, in the Bijapur District. There are now about eight thousand persons in Settlements in this Presidency. By the transfer of the Sholapur Settlement, the Marathi Mission has accepted responsibility for over two thousand five hundred persons, i. e., more than twice the number in any other Settlement in India.

It is work fraught with great possibilities. Attendance of the children at school is compulsory. The adults will, for the most part, be employed in the Sholapur mills. Their health will need careful attention. Attendance at night schools is made compulsory for the lads. This night school might be developed, as experience is gained, into an institution where first aid, elementary hygiene, temperance, drill, etc., are taught, and suitable games are organized.

The conditions of life in mills in India are hard and the hours very long. Tact and vigilance are required to see that the legal conditions of labor are not exceeded as far as the Settlement workers are concerned. Some of the boys will, in future, have to be taught trades, so that better avenues for labor will be open to the younger generation.

The people in the Settlement are self-supporting, and in the main contented. The difficulty is, not to find inmates, but to steel one's heart to turn away individuals and gangs which apply for admission to Settlements which are already full to overflowing. They come and say, "We have relatives in the Settlement. We are tired of our wandering life and of going so often to jail. We wish to stay here." An extension of the Settlement in Sholapur is being planned, whereby a new suburb of the town will be opened up. When this is complete, Sholapur can receive a Settlement population of about four thousand persons.

The progress made in different presidencies and provinces of India has been so satisfactory that the authorities are preparing for important forward moves, when the conclusion of the war permits expenditure in such directions. Recently I had occasion to prepare an estimate for the future expansion of the work in the Bombay Presidency. and gave 30,000 as the number of persons who ought to be placed in its Settlements. This estimate is probably on the conservative side. Here, therefore, is an opening in a new direction for missionary enterprises.

As the work is novel, it would not perhaps be out of place for me to say, as a matter of personal experience during my eight years' work amongst these people, that I feel that it permits more intimate contact with the life of the people, and gives more opportunities for molding character, than any other branch of service, government Personal morality in many of these castes compares favorably with that of other castes in India. If they can or missionary, with which I am acquainted, in India.

Strange though it may seem, the majority of the members of these criminal tribes are moral and good persons. It has been their misfortune to be born into clans whose customs are to steal or to make false coins, as the customs of other castes are to work as potters or carpenters. Amongst the Chapparbands, the legend is that in the beginning of all things every man went to God to be assigned his trade. The sutar (carpenter caste) went to God and was told to go to work as a carpenter. The lohar (blacksmith caste) went to God and was told to work as a blacksmith. The Chapparband went to God and was given a rupee (a coin) and told to trade with it. He was told, moreover, not to look back until he had reached home; but on the way he did look back, and lo, the coin in his hand became a false one! Having to maintain himself, he passed it off on some one else, and so commenced the caste of coiners.

once be so influenced and controlled that they recognize that stealing or coining is a moral wrong, the battle will be gained. In some cases the response has been immediate, notably among the Chapparbands. In 1909, of the 900 adult males of this caste. 200 were in jail for coining, 650 were wandering in various parts of India, and fifty were earning their livelihood by honest means. There are now only four in jail for offenses of any kind, and since 1911 there have been only two proved cases of coining committed by them. In other castes the response is not so immediate, but in all cases a very great decrease in crime has occurred as soon as the castes are placed in the Settlements.

This, then, is the work which the American Marathi Mission has undertaken in Sholapur. Every one will agree that it affords useful opportunities for service. The community with which one has to deal is compact. Its members can be influenced in every side of their communal life. The children attend the Settlement school;

the people live in the Settlement compound; their marriages and other needs are financed from the Settlement Bank, the capital of the bank being provided by themselves; their employment is arranged by the Settlement staff; and lastly, their disputes and minor lapses from the straight path are dealt with by the Settlement staff, with the aid of the elders of their castes as advisers. They are grateful to those who aid them and hardly ever openly refuse to obey an order. Government is showing its belief in the work by giving generous grants to the Settlement, but it looks to the Mission Society to provide a succession of enthusiastic men and women, who are prepared to devote their lives to the reform of the Criminal Tribes which will be intrusted to their charge.

UNDER WAY AT SHOLAPUR

MR. AND MRS. H. H. STRUTTON

T is a pleasure to present the likenesses of Rev. and Mrs. Henry H. Strutton, who have joined the Marathi Mission, to take charge of the Criminal Tribes' Settlement at Sholapur. They come with the pleasantest introductions, notably from Mr. and Mrs. L. Henry Gates, who have been working with Mr. Starte in the Settlement until the permanent managers could be secured. Mr. Starte staved for some weeks with the mission, helping his new staff to get hold of their responsibilities and reassuring the colonists in the Settlement as to their continued religious liberty and as to the continued strictness of the rules governing their moral behavior also!

In a letter from Mr. Strutton, dated in late June, he says: "The transfer has not disturbed the usual tranquillity of the Settlement. Just what that usual tranquillity is, would be rather difficult to explain. With over 2,000 criminals crowded together in a spot of a few acres in extent and representing five tribes, all of them specialists in some particular form of crime; most of them hitherto used to an outdoor life; free to roam where they would and terrorize whom they would, one can understand that tranquillity here must be a matter of degrees.

"Sunday is usually a mill holiday, and therefore for the Settlement staff about the busiest day of the week. Opportunities are taken on Sundays for gathering the heads of the various castes and securing their coöperation in settling many matters that come up for decision—perhaps as to whether a certain man may marry, and whom and what the dowry shall be; whether he may get a loan from the Settlement Bank, and how much may be spent on the wedding, the latter a ruling that strikes at the root of a very old custom indeed.

"The Settlement Bank is a great boon. Borrowers have to become shareholders and find sureties or securities, and if they are approved they can borrow money at half the rate of interest charged by outside lenders. Perhaps it may be necessary to use a little mild force in collecting the interest; but after all, this is what they have been used to all their days."

Mrs. Strutton gives a brief sketch of the Settlement's work with the women and children, which is so far educational and medical. The latter grew so rapidly in the first two weeks after its start that the help of an Indian trained nurse became necessary. "Of course, severe or difficult cases will not be dealt with, but will be passed on to the doctor in charge of the municipal hospital close by, and with whom we have an arrangement that (if necessary) he may be called in in case of a cholera or plague outbreak. in addition to a daily call at the dispensary."

Among other duties, Mr. and Mrs. Strutton have had to revise the mill registers where they found that same men were working the night and day shifts, and both where boys and girls much under legal age were working. They have had to overhaul the entire place from a sanitary standpoint, building new drains, etc. "Lest the matter of female labor be a question to some of you," writes Mrs. Gates, whose earlier connection with the Settlement has been mentioned, "let me say that the women are just as bad about stealing as the men, and it is necessary to keep them occupied or one could never keep track of them. Only the very old women and the girls under ten are allowed to stay home from work."

As an illustration of Mr. Starte's experiences, Mrs. Gates tells the following:—

It had been discovered that the Haranshikars (hunters) have been stealing small articles, probably as they go to and fro in the streets, to their work. Mr. Starte summoned the entire tribe and made them bring all the furnishings from their homes. Then a man was called forward and made to sort his possessions -stolen things in one pile, his own in another. If he tried to cheat. those sitting by told of him. members of the tribe then suggested the fine, which, if the judge approved, was imposed. Then the culprit went back to the ranks and helped deal with the next subject. They seemed to enjoy it hugely.

THE HEALING TOUCH ON RAW AFRICA

BY HENRY S. HOLLENBECK, M.D., OF THE WEST AFRICA MISSION

The Missionary Herald has often recounted the wonderful influence upon the primitive mind exerted by the skilled missionary doctor. The faith of some of the African natives in the foreign medicine is absolute, and the veil which seems to prevent the native mind from comprehending spiritual truth is often taken away by the medical work of the mission. Dr. Henry S. Hollenbeck, of Kamundongo, has furnished many an illustration of the truth of this statement, and the following extracts from a letter from him describe some incidents of a visit he made this spring in West Africa.—The Editor.

HE region we were in is but three days from Kamundongo and a day and a half from an outstation, but it is in the territory of another tribe, among whom there is no missionary work. I was surprised at the population we found; there were more villages than I expected. We had a good interpreter and our meetings aroused some interest, insomuch that one chief made inquiry about sending his boys over to school. It is a very needy field, and I would advise any one who is disappointed with the progress and showing among these people to visit them.

The medicine case was very popular, and certain kinds of medicine were soon used up. One could build up a great practice over there. I was called to see one woman who has a spleen so large that the end of it could be seen pressing out; it felt as hard as a lump of anthracite. She had undergone innumerable cuppings, until almost the entire body was riddled like a sieve.

Cupping is their favorite remedy. One young man had been cupped for a particularly malignant ulcer, and another ulcer of the same type had appeared at the site of each cupping. He besought us for relief. A man who was going blind implored us to save his sight. A young woman entreated us for relief from an ulcer which had proceeded from a simple abrasion on the shin to the envolvement of the entire bone from the knee to the ankle. In some places there seemed to be more people with ulcers than without them, and all without any adequate care.

I have just had a case which well illustrates one of the functions of the medical work out here. man living in a community where a new work has been started was taken sick with severe fever. When it left him he was dumb. unable to make a loud sound. He and his neighbors were absolutely certain that some one had bewitched him. using some powerful charm, for whoever heard of simple fever leaving a man dumb and otherwise unimpaired?

The victim was for wreaking vengeance on his tormentor, could he be discovered and a sufficiently powerful charm obtained. The teacher persuaded him to come to the hospital for help, which he did. After five days' treatment his speech returned. That was our first experience in restoring speech, and we were very thankful to have it occur in this particular case, though we cannot explain just how it came about. It is a hard blow right on the weak spot of charms and fetishes just when needed.

FENG KUO CHANG China's New President

THE JULY COUP D'ETAT IN CHINA

From Letters of a Woman Missionary

TUAN CH'I JUI China's Restored Premier

July 3, 1917.

SHOULD date this, "Ninth Year of the Emperor Hsuan T'ung, Fifth Moon, Fifteenth Day," for he whom for six years we have called "the little ex-Emperor" was enthroned early Sunday morning, two days ago. General Chang Hsun, that survivor of the old feudal barons, who brought his 5,000 pig-tailed troops from the South and marched them unresisted into Peking in late June, for the purpose, as he declared at the time, "of dissolving Parliament and of forming a responsible cabinet to act with President Li," has evidently decided that the little Manchu boy would make a better puppet than Li. Since last Thursday, General Chang Hsun has had the help of K'ang Yu Wei, leader of the old "Protect Emperor" Society of 1898. K'ang has been announcing himself as "Civil Sage" and upholding Confucianism as the state religion, while he calls rough, ignorant Chang Hsun, who can neither read nor write. the "Military Sage."

But about that coup. A little after midnight, on the morning of July 1, troops of Chang Hsun in large numbers passed from the Temple of Heaven, where they have been quartered, and were stationed about the Forbidden City, where Hsuan T'ung has continued to live. Others were stationed about the Winter Palace, to the west, where President Li lives. At about three, before daylight, Liang Ting fen, tutor to the little Emperer, and known as the most reactionary scholar in China, accompanied by General Chiang, of the Gendarmerie, who functioned for a few days as premier in order to assist in dissolving Parliament; Mr. Wu, head of the Peking police; and General Wang, of the Board of War, went to the President's residence, roused him from sleep, and told him that the restoration of the Empire was a sure thing and that the proper thing for him to do was to issue a mandate resigning in favor of little Hsuan T'ung. This President Li refused to The coup, however, required haste, so the party returned to the Emperor's palace, where preparations had meantime been made, and at four or five in the morning a lad of ten or eleven was seated on a dragon throne and greeted by kotowing.

Was it in the great throne room which Yuan Shih Kai renovated so elegantly for himself a year and a half ago? One has only sympathy for the innocent boy whose sorrows are just beginning. The old dragon flags were soon floating over the government buildings, but the fivecolor republican flag still flew on the flagstaff of the President's house until sunset. It is said that the group which visited Li in the morning, offering him high privileges if he would be a traitor to the Republic, made another fruitless call on him in the late afternoon. This is not the first time Li Yuan Hung has proved true to his trust, for he was a prisoner during the bogus emperorship of Yuan

Shih Kai, refusing to throw up the vice-presidency of the Republic, which he then held.

I see I have left out the chief actor! It is said that most of the high officials who are taking part in the restoration did not know of Chang Hsun's schemes until nine o'clock Saturday night, but they meekly took the parts assigned them. Chang Hsun went to the Forbidden City Saturday afternoon and met the other actors when he came out that evening. The first "Imperial Edict," issued Sunday morning, was signed by him as member of the "Imperial Privy Council." Six others he has associated with himself on that council.

July 4.

There are signs that this restored Manchu dynasty may be even shorter lived than Yuan Shih Kai's. Troops opposing Chang Hsun are marching from Tientsin and Paotingfu toward Peking. The city is under martial law. Police and soldiers line the streets. President Li emphatically denies that he has surrendered his office, but his bodyguards have been removed and he has been told that he must leave his palace.

July 5.

China is still a republic, and Chang Hsun a rebel! Before escaping from the palace, President Li sent a private messenger to Tientsin, bearing most important mandates stamped with the President's seal, and also carrying the seal itself and instructing the Vice-President to act as President in the place of Li himself, who then escaped to the Japanese Legation. So the Japanese score here. It is said that Chang Hsun and the little Emperor are much dismayed. Our local troops must be taking orders from Chang Hsun, but I hear that seventeen provinces have sent him an ultimatum ordering him to leave Peking within twenty-four hours. Our postman's bag no longer has the label, "Republic of China," but it is, "Great Pure Dynasty." Inside the bag, however, is the Chinese edition of the Peking Gazette, bravely dated, "Sixth Year of the Republic," coming each morning from the center of Peking. Tuan Ch'i Jui. commander-in-chief of the troops of the Republic, in a proclamation, "A Call to Arms," speaks thus of the coup d'état: "Chang Hsun's words were law, and all others were forced to obey. Later he, taking K'ang Yu Wei with him, invaded the forbidden precincts of the Imperial Palace. There he forced the boy Emperor to take the throne against his will, the Imperial Guardian, Shih Hsü, protesting, knocking his head on the floor until his blood flowed and his nose was crushed. The Imperial consorts, Chin and Yu, wept bitterly, and prayed that they might all be spared incurring this great danger." So Chang Hsun is denounced as a traitor to the Republic and an enemy of the Manchu House! There are some refugees and we have been asked to take in some Chinese women if there should be trouble, but there is nothing like the panic of six years ago.

July 9.

We now believe the trouble will soon be over. On July 7, an aëroplane dropped bombs in the Forbidden Chang Hsun realizes strength of the forces against him and has resigned most of his new offices. The question of how to dispose of him and his troops intensely interests Peking just now. He is fortifying his residence, which is not far from the legation area and less than a mile southeast of our mission. The legations are trying to get some one to come up from Tientsin and mediate and especially to arrange for poor little Hsuan T'ung. His "empire" has ceased issuing edicts and does not seem to have strength even to abdicate.

July 14.

Today I have been about the city. whose quiet streets are decorated with the five-color flag. However. there were few women and children on the streets, for the terror of day before yesterday, when shot and shell raged for twelve hours, beginning at 4.30 in the morning, has not quite passed away. Much shot and shell passed over our compound in the attack on Chang Hsun's fortified quarter, but fortunately it passed high, and the only bullet found had penetrated the roof of the south veranda of the ladies' house and done no further damage. Chang Hsun, who had boasted that he would die with his family and bodyguard about him, fighting to the end, sent his family away early and himself escaped to the legations by motor car. There is some mystery surrounding his dash through the lines. Who helped him, and why? He went first to the Dutch Legation. but almost immediately took up his abode in the German barracks. Will the legations regard this brigandtraitor as a political offender and as worthy of protection?

July 16.

Today I have spent seven or eight hours calling on my Chinese non-

Christian friends, scattered in the extreme limits of the city.

About a year ago I had called at the home of a certain lady of high rank. Two nieces of this lady, educated in Shanghai, have visited me since, and wanted much to come to school, but their conservative old grandmother preferred to have them with their Imperial relatives in the palace.

After the bomb explosions in the palace, ten days ago, this family wrote me a piteous letter asking me "for the love of God" to shelter these girls. I did not receive the letter for several days, but called there today, to find that the girls had taken refuge in the Catholic Cathedral when they heard nothing from me.

I was glad to offer my sympathy to their grandmother and uncle. They looked piteously haggard and humbled, and were so grateful for my call. They are so near the residence of Chang Hsun that bullets were thick, but no shells burst in their house.

One bomb explosion in the palace grounds killed a chair bearer only a rew feet from the platform on which a son of this family was standing, and he had been deaf, dazed, and unable to sleep for eight or nine days. He had dropped asleep for the first time when I called today.

In this sad household, of course, I did not think it courteous to ask where the members of the Imperial family are, but at another official home I was told that Hsuan T'ung's family secretly took him home on July 7, and that the two Imperial consorts, after the battle on Thursday, went to the home of Prince T'ao, brother of their husband, Kuang Hsu.

I like to think that the little lad who has been penned up and made to play Emperor for nine years, six of them a mere farce, can live a natural life for at least a few days with his parents and younger brothers. What to do with him is one of the many troublesome questions to settle. I passed the residence of his father, the Prince Regent, today and soldiers were guarding the dwelling.

A GOOD SOLDIER OF CHRIST JESUS

ELDOM has the cable brought more grievous news to the Board Rooms than when it announced the death at Durban, Natal, August 23, of Rev. Charles H. Maxwell. It was a bolt out of a clear sky. No intimation had come that he was in ill health. The dispatch said only that he died of ulceration of the stomach while in attendance upon mission meeting.

Mr. Maxwell was called away while in the very prime of life and in the midst of a most responsible and challenging task. His first term of service was in the Zulu Branch of the South Africa Mission, where he endeared himself to his colleagues and to the native peoples by his devotion and efficiency. He was a master at touring among the churches and in supervising his district.

After a furlough in the homeland, he returned to Africa with his wife and three children in 1914. But this time he went to Beira, port city of Portuguese East Africa, in the territory of the Mozambique Co.

Beira is not only an important center in itself, a point of vantage for reaching the native tribes of that region, but it is the port to which come the missionaries headed for Rhodesia and whence stretches the long trail thither. It is on every account a strategic location for the American Board to occupy, as was recognized when it was first chosen in 1904. Closed as a mission station of necessity in 1907, its reoccupation in 1915 was hailed by the Board and the South Africa Mission with delight.

The Maxwells threw themselves into the new undertaking with characteristic earnestness and enthusiasm. When the missionary doctor, who it was arranged should share with them the burden of starting the work, was compelled to withdraw, these undaunted missionaries never wavered. Stopping in Lisbon long enough to get a working knowledge of the Portuguese language, they pushed resolutely on and soon were established in their new home.

Then began the slow but important work of laying foundations, making acquaintance, winning confidence of officials and regard of natives; finding what could be attempted and when and how to begin. It was slow work at best. But remarkable progress was made.

Already a good hold had been secured. Friendly relations had been established; acquisition of the native (Chindau) dialect had made possible the issuance of the first book in that speech; the assistance of an evangelical teacher had been secured through the bringing of Señor Luz from Portugal; way was opened for the beginning of a school. The local government officials had begun to manifest interest in the work. Plans were forming for advance and hopes were high for pushing the advantage gained. And then came the sudden, and as it seems to human eyes, untimely removal of Mr. Maxwell

BAGOBO PROSPECTS AT DAVAO

HE reënforcements which 1916 brought to our Philippine Mission were Rev. and Mrs. Julius S. Augur, both natives of Connecticut and graduates, the one of Yale and Hartford, the other of Mt. Holyoke. They are stationed at Davao and, with Dr. Lucius W. Case, the appointee of 1915, have been working devotedly on the problems of the people—their language, their special needs, and the best modes of approach to them.

Not long ago the Field Museum of Natural History, of Chicago, published a monograph on the "Wild Tribes of Davao District, Mindanao," written by Mr. Cole, assistant curator of Malayan ethnology in the museum, and embodying information gained by Mr. Cole and his wife during a seven months' stay in Southern Mindanao.

It is fascinating reading, by itself; and when some of its statements are illuminated by Mr. Augur's comments, one realizes that our Mindanao mission field is fairly aching to be cultivated.

THE BAGOBOS OF DATO TONKALING'S COUNTRY

The west coast of Davao Gulf is dotted with small villages whose inhabitants are largely Bagobos, who have given up their mountain homes and come down to live in towns. Back of the coast are mountain peaks, some densely timbered and with abrupt cliffs, others with grassy slopes coming down to the water. They all radiate from Mt. Apo, that huge mass which is said to be a volcano. Along the lower eastern and southern slopes of these peaks live the "wild tribes" of the Bagobo, with one Tonkaling as their official head, a dato. Tonkaling has been a good friend to the Americans in general and to our missionaries in particular. Mr. Augur writes of a fine new school building which is being made ready on a site near Tonkaling's residence—Sibulon, according to Mr. Augur, or Cibolan, as the Cole monograph spells it. The letter goes on: "If they finish it up according to the specifications which they agreed to when I looked at the building, which already had its roof, it will be our best school building, unless the other district school committees I have appointed outdo themselves.

THE "WILD" COMMITTEES

"It is a new attempt, and I cannot say how it will work out—this having a school committee of the wild men themselves. For each of the schools we now have I have had a committee of three appointed by the dato to provide the building, to see that the children come to school, and to help plan the courses and grades of study. This may sound pretentious, but it was important to get the committee at Bulatakai back of our work when we desired to get a third grade there. By getting their interest we have advocates with the parents to urge keeping the children another year in school, instead of giving their girls in marriage.

NEW SCHOOLS AND NEW STUDIES

"We are planning now to open a school at Tubeson, a Bagobo village out on the shoulder of a mountain, two hours' away from Sibulon. The dato is eager to have a school there, and its accessibility makes it important. The desire of the teacher and the interest of the school at Sibulon led us to add a forge equipment to the school there for use this year. At Melila there will be third and fourth grades this coming year, the latter to be taught by the wife of the young man in charge of the school.

WHAT NEXT?

"The problem will soon be what to do with those who have completed the fourth grade, for it seems as though it would be well for some of these people to be prepared for leadership. These men appeal to me more and more as I go among them, and I hope we may be able to carry on our work further and wisely.

A GROUP OF ATAS ON THEIR FIRST VISIT TO DAVAO

Mr. Augur is standing at the right. The Atá country is in the interior of Mindanao, some distance from the coast behind the Bagobo and Mindayans and the mixed population at the head of the Gulf of Davao. This group were shown about the mission premises and taken to the chapel, where Mrs. Augur played for them on the organ. They expressed surprise by slapping the backs of their necks and clicking their tongues

"Just now a normal institute is being held in Davao for all the government teachers in the province. I suppose there are more than fifty of them. Quite a number attend our chapel services and the Bible classes. These teachers are in some instances off in a village by themselves — the only factor counting for the enlightenment and uplift of the community. But all teachers these are under one superintendent of schools. Now, it seems to me that if we could in some way line up workers in the many barrios, the Davao missionary ought to be able to look after as many helpers as the superintendent of schools.

"I am trying to make friends with these teachers. I gave an address before their assembly one morning; with some I have played tennis and baseball: and have attended some of their social functions with Mrs. Augur. It seems to me that here is a group which may help us, directly or indirectly.

"Our Boy Scout organization has begun, and I see some results there already and look for more. Our vacation school had an enrollment of thirty bright little youngsters and has just closed with a highly successful picnic. Bible verses were taught every day; new songs were learned, new games introduced, and the pupils taught to make balls and paper novelties."

A VICTORY ALL ALONG THE LINE

As we go to press, it is evident that our year ends with a small balance on the credit side of the account. We are not able to give details here, but the Treasurer's report will soon be in print and ready for distribution. In view of the many complications, both in the expenditures on mission fields and in securing the records and accounts of the missions through irregular mail service, the Treasurer's report will be this year a most interesting document.

August proved to be one of the grandest months in the history of the Board in the matter of receipts. The churches registered a gain of $8,075.79; individual donations a gain of $18,337.71; young people a gain of $22.75; legacies a gain of $12,396.44; matured conditional gifts a gain of $15,355.72. Only in the item. Income from General Fund, was there a falling off, and that amounts to but The task we set for our-$36.37. selves was the securing in August of $50,000 more than in August of 1916. We actually ran ahead $54,152.04. This splendid result was achieved by the loyalty and devotion of multitudes of friends. During the last days of the month personal checks came to our treasury at the rate of over a hundred a day. Most of these remittances were for moderate amounts; the largest sum was $1,000.

Nowtake alook at the twelve months' record. In the midst of the world war, notwithstanding the heavy expenses which it forces upon every family, its many distractions and its multitudinous appeals, we have received for the work of the American Board the splendid sum of $1,247,715.99, which is the largest figure in our history by $40,589.45.

This outcome will be glad news to our missionaries all over the world. They will rejoice not merely because the treasury registers a new highwater mark, but because the year's giving indicates a healthy spiritual condition on the part of the home constituency. It bodes well for the future. That this interpretation is warranted appears when we examine the year's receipts in detail as to the source of the gain. It has been a victory all along the line.

We call upon all the friends of the Board, especially those who have been able to participate in the giving of the past month, to join in a prayer of thanksgiving to Almighty God for the great deliverance that has come to us, and for the encouragement which is ours as we face the financing of another year.

"TO WHOMSOEVER MUCH IS GIVEN"

A STRAIGHT TALK TO MEN OF WEALTH

We have been waiting and thinking a long time before venturing to say what is here set forth. We have feared that unintentionally we might do injustice to men and women of wealth who have a true conception of their responsibilities and who are endeavoring to do their full share in the work of the Kingdom. Thank God, there are such—a choice company, who, by divine grace and by incessant watchfulness, have avoided the dangers which beset the path of those who acquire great riches. Few people, if any, are in a better position than the officers of the American Board to appreciate the devotion and generosity of these truly wealthy souls. President Hyde, of Bowdoin, is reported to have said, "A consecrated rich man is the noblest work of God." However that may be, it is a matter of fact that societies like the American Board owe their present-day strength and position in no small degree to the donations and legacies of the godly rich.

But outside of this rather small company there are many men of property who are practicing a form of selfdeception which we must consider dangerous in the extreme. The point is, they flatter themselves with the thought that they are liberal, when in reality they are not. Their gifts may appear large when compared with the donations of men of small or moderate means, but regarded in the light of their financial ability, what they give is far from adequate. Years ago, in the days of smaller things, these men obtained the notion that for a person to give away $100 was a noteworthy thing. Today, when their income is vastly increased, the same measure prevails. They have enlarged their ideas in every realm except that of beneficence. Today such persons as we have in mind could give $1,000 easier than the average man can give $10. In many cases a $1,000 check would not in any wise alter their manner of life, nor could it be considered in any true sense an act of self-sacrifice.

The self-deception which sets in when a man in his beneficence trades on his ancient reputation makes for chronic discontent in the presence of the world's needs. These are the men and women who are always complaining about the multiplicity of appeals. They have adopted certain impressive but insincere formulas for the refusing of charitable requests. The favorite remark is, "A man cannot give to everything." They talk about being "pestered" by appeals. Their habitual attitude in the presence of need is irritability. They often characterize their callers as "beggars." They can get rid of a college president or a missionary secretary who seeks help for some noble enterprise with the utmost sang-froid.

We have known men to invent excuses for not listening to calls of opportunity or distress which an angel might covet. The one thing they can contribute to the good of the world is money, and that they refuse. The man they "turn down" more than likely is giving constantly and joyously of his own peculiar treasure. He is writing laborious articles, making addresses which require much study thought, going on long journeys, and in various other ways using his talents out of love for God and his Kingdom. He gives freely of what he has to give. and we do not find him making excuses or complaining because he is in such demand. If he cannot accept a call to service, he declines in a courteous and sympathetic way.

Here is a missionary who has given his life for the work of Christ in a foreign land like Turkey. What is any gift of money compared with the sacrifice he is making? Money has been called the cheapest thing a man can give; but there is one thing cheaper—that is talk; and of all cheap talk the very cheapest is that of the man who pretends he is liberal when he is not.

What did Jesus have to say on this subject? His words were direct, incisive, terrible in their plainness. We are given to softening our statements, attempting to be tactful when we deal with the vice of penuriousness. Jesus never did this. How could he? The danger was so imminent, the evils so apparent, eternity so long! He would have been false to his holy and loving mission had he refused to speak out as he did to the rich. One word of our Lord is particularly in our mind. a word which we think he would repeat with solemn emphasis, were he to come to the world today, and to look upon the vast accumulation of wealth in the hands of his professed followers. Imagine Jesus addressing a wealthy church! The word is this, "To whomsoever much is given, of him shall much be required." Not little. but much; not a beggarly proportion of your income, but a great big slice of it; not $10 checks to get rid of solicitors; but noble investments in the enterprises of God.

This is a fearfully serious thing we are talking about. All around are men and women living in a state of deadening self-deception. Not only are they missing the great things of life, but their characters are hardening for eternity. The sad fact is not so much that the missionary, whose appeal is rejected, is disappointed, but that the man who rejects him is in a perilous spiritual condition. about that Day when the secrets of all hearts shall be revealed? self-revelation will there be then? What tests of meanness and of love? We would press God's judgments into no narrow mold of circumstance or form; but that his judgments will be pronounced, who can doubt?

It is not an appeal to fear so much as to reason, to fairness, to love, to say that here and hereafter the principle enunciated by Jesus must stand firm, "To whomsoever much is given, of him much shall be required."

FOREIGN DEPARTMENT

THE BALKANS

In Beleaguered Monastir

We cannot print much of what is happening in our stations in the war zone, principally because we get but meager and repressed messages from them, but also because we must be careful as to publishing what we do learn. There seems no reason, however, why we should not share with our readers a letter from Matthews, now our only representative left in Monastir, that threatened Serbian city. It is true missionary devotion that keeps her holding on, where she is so shut off from friends and even from mails, and where she faces ever the possibility of another transfer of government in the fortunes of war. Miss Matthews wrote under date of June 18:-

"Your letter of November 17, 1916, came to me this afternoon, and you may be sure it was appreciated. Some letters sent earlier than that have not reached me yet. One card from my sister, dated May 3, arrived two days ago, the freshest mail I have had, and the only written word from the United States for a long time—two months,

"You probably know more about the situation than we do. We get very little news. The French Protestants of the army have their service in our little church on Sunday at 2 P.M. Some of our people attend, though they do not understand French. The 'pastor' (chaplain) is a very good man. When he must be with his men elsewhere, a young doctor leads the service. We are glad that my young assistant teachers can help at the hospital, under the direction of the English doctor and nurses. We have had no teaching since the last change, and cannot make any plans for the future. The one thing we long for is peace, but that must come in the right way, and may not come very soon. It would not be my duty, I think, to remain if another change comes, but I shall stay unless that happens. You need not be anxious about my health. I am very well, and can sleep at any time of day or night when I do not need to be awake. I usually wear day clothing at night, to be ready for emergencies.

"We are thankful that Mr. Jenney built the walls of the school buildings so very thick and strong that the lower parts of the buildings are like a castle. We live in the basements chiefly, but not entirely. It is not the time to tell you of our experiences, but I can say that God has cared for us wonderfully all these months, and our faith has increased with each new experience of his protection and providence. It cannot be said that we are not in danger, but I do not consider it a needless risk. Never for a moment have I had any doubt about my duty as to staying here. And it is clear now that it would not have been best for an associate to come with me.

"There are pleasant people in the city for relief work, and I enjoy meeting these friends; and when they go to Salonica they sometimes call on our circle there."

TURKEY

Still in Turkey

The missionaries of the American Board with their close foreign associates, as located within Turkey on the last of August, were as follows:—

At Constantinople: Rev. O. P. Allen, Miss Annie T. Allen, Miss Annie M. Barker, Mr. Luther R. Fowle, Miss Anna B. Jones, Miss Rachel B. North, Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Irwin and three children.

At Smyrna: Dr. and Mrs. Alexander MacLachlan and one child, Rev. and Mrs. Cass A. Reed and one child, Mr. Samuel L. Caldwell, Miss Emily McCallum, Miss Ilse C. Pohl, Miss Minnie B. Mills.

At Marsovan: Mr. and Mrs. Dana K. Getchell, Miss Charlotte R. Willard.

At Harpoot: Miss Marie Jacobsen. At Mardin: Mrs. Seraphina S. Dewey, Miss Diantha L. Dewey, Miss J. Louise Graf.

At Aintab: Dr. John E. Merrill, Miss Harriet C. Norton, Dr. Caroline F. Hamilton, Miss Elizabeth M. Trowbridge.

At Tarsus: Mrs. Thomas D. Christie. At Adana: Dr. Cyril H. Haas, Miss C. Grace Towner.

At Hadjin: Miss Olive M. Vaughan. At Marash: Rev. and Mrs. Edward C. Woodley and four children, Rev. James K. Lyman, Rev. John C. Martin, Miss Ellen M. Blakeley, Miss Annie E. Gordon, Miss Bessie M. Hardy.

At Sivas: Miss Mary L. Graffam.

At Beirut: Rev. and Mrs. Ernest W. Riggs and two children, Rev. and Mrs. Ira W. Pierce and two children, Miss Margaret H. Campbell, Mrs. Margaret R. Trowbridge, Mrs. Fanny P. Shepard, and Miss Florence Shepard.

At Konia: Miss Emma D. Cushman. -We understand that Mr. Isaac N. Camp, who has been in Cairo, is now in Palestine, but we have not his location.

Here are forty-nine adults, besides the thirteen children. There is a considerable company of American Board representatives still scattered over Turkey; a dozen stations are occupied. Relief work is being maintained and supervised. Relief funds are needed as much as ever; more than ever with winter drawing on, with every resource tapped, and vitality and courage still farther strained. If ever there was a piteous appeal, it is from perishing Turkey.

On — the party of American missionaries left in Harpoot started on the long and adventurous journey out of Turkey and home to the United States. They reached New York — ... When they got to neutral soil in Switzerland, they took a deep, free breath and began to adjust themselves to their restored liberties. One of the number wrote from Vevey as follows:—

"Our cup indeed ran over when, on reaching Berne, we learned that there is money for our poor, hungering people. Now we can enjoy this peaceful and beautiful country more, knowing that the suffering we left behind us will be at least partially alleviated. It is hard to shake the fetters off our pens, but I must try to tell you a few things.

"Personally, we are very thankful for the way in which God has cared for and guided us on our long journey—three weeks to Constantinopie and six and a half weeks' delay there, and then, as comfortable a train trip as we could expect, to reach this haven.

"Before reaching Constantinople, we received a budget of letters from Harpoot. You will rejoice with us to hear some of the items of news from there. At the time we left, the Protestant chapel was given back by the military authorities for services for the Armenians.

"The girls' college building was being taken for hospital purposes, and then the large schoolroom where our services had been held for nearly two years would no longer be available for that purpose. The pastor writes that the local officials continue to be friendly. We are thankful for the brave, consecrated spirit of Badv. Vartan, whom God saved for just the work he is doing. In speaking of the hunger of the people, he says, 'The future is very dark, but we have the God of Light, and the light will come, sometime.' How can the poor, ignorant people, who now form our Harpoot community, grasp the gospel when they are hungry?

"Miss Jacobsen has courageously taken up the burdens we have laid down. Before our leaving, many of the women went to the surrounding villages to try to find a living. They were obliged to do this, because we had had to cut off their bread. The result was that many children were deserted in the streets. Miss Jacobsen was obliged to gather into eleven houses groups of forty orphans each, and to care for them, with the help of trustworthy assistants (among them some of our own schoolgirls). The children were nothing but skin and bones, too weak to want to play, and it was a question whether they could keep alive on the small amount of bread they were getting. Many of these orphans, and other adults and children outside, were succumbing to sickness and hunger. These letters were written in June, and no money in sight for July. What they have done until the present, I know not. The children were praying, 'Oh, Father, give the Hairig (Mr. Riggs) money to send to us.'

"The military authorities had promised to continue the free treatment of poor Armenians in our hospital, and at last accounts they were keeping their promise. The proceeds from our pharmacy were to be used for treating these poor Armenians, and any deficit the Turks promised to provide. Up in Harpoot the authorities had established a free hospital for the Armenians. These things all seemed too good to be true—but 'all things are possible with God.'

"The officials had great respect for Mr. Riggs, and assured all of us that we need not leave. I am sure that personally we should have been very well treated if we had stayed. At the time of Mrs. Riggs's death, officials of high and low rank paid their respects, and one officer asked the privilege of furnishing soldiers to act as pallbearers. News of broken relations with Turkey had come within a week before!"

JAPAN

Evangelizing by Mail

A device to overcome distance and to spread a missionary's influence over far more territory than he can traverse is described in a recent letter from Rev. George M. Rowland, of Sapporo, in the Hokkaido, or northernmost island of Japan:—

"We are planning here in our Hokkaido for a much larger use of Christian literature than we have ever attempted. The distances are so great that it takes undue time and effort to reach the country people. On the way back from mission meeting I took a four days' trip with Mr. Waterhouse, of the Omi Mission, in the gospel ship of that mission, on Lake Biwa. They live in the boat. It takes the crew of four to six with the utmost ease to any point on the lake. When anchored, they have their wheels to go a mile or five miles over good roads to little villages and towns near the shore. All this made me feel anew the difficulties of distance here in Hokkaido.

"Our plan now is to use the post for the distribution of small tracts broadcast as advertising matter, with our advertisement to help any one who wishes further aid, loaning him books or answering his difficulties by letter. Then we shall as often as possible go to definite points to seek out particular people.

"This is not a new thing. I have been doing more or less in this line for fifteen years or so. But I now hope to enlarge this branch of our station work and leave the touring in part, at least, to Mr. Holmes, who is thoroughly in accord with the plan."
